EXPEDITE THE OUTFLOW

Early Change to be Made in Northeast Boundary Sewer.

TRANSFER OF THE OUTLET

Attorney Thomas' Decision of a Law Point Awaited with Interest-Appeal from the Commissioners' Decision Relating to Gas Engines. Water Street Property Owners.

The plan heretofore outlined in The Times for a change in the outlet of Boundary sewer in the northeast section of the city has been completed, and the work will be commenced as soon as prac-icable after the first of July.

The contemplated diversion of the out-flow of sewage will be by the cutting of a deep trench from the present outlet at Eighteenth and E streets to the point, southeastward, where East Capitol street terminates at the Eastern Branch.

This will give a good, natural incline for the discharge of the sewer contents and avoid the stagnation that has been so long a source of complaint in the vicinity of Isherwood, where the marshy ground catches an odoriferous deposit during the summer months. The present outlet is often affected by the tide and by awater, and the change will be halled , ith great satisfaction by the residents of the locality.

MRS. NORTON'S STABLE.

Property owners are taking considerable interest in the controversy over the proposed construction of a stable upon Mrs. Norion's premises, as related in vesterday's Times, and the decision by Attorney Thomas of the legal points raised are awaited with anxiety.

Senator Proctor, who resides at No. 1535 L street northwest, incidentally referred to the matter yesterday when he called to apply for a permit for enlarging his stables, and jorosely suggested the propriety of making his building large enough to afford room for Mrs. Norton's team. The Senator had no trouble in procuring a permit, as his building does not come under the prohibitive provisions of the law. .

Their contention was that the title to the ground occupied is in dispute, and that the right of the Commissioners to exercise any control over it is a matter for the courts to decide. OLD TESTIMONY EXCLUDED Serious Loss to the Defense in the Howgate Trial.

Ruling of Judge McComas Cuts Out a Greater Part of the Defendant's Evidence.

A new feature was developed resterday in the trial of Capt, Henry W. Howgate in the trial of Capt. Henry w. I for for ry for making a false account and for for ry in connection with the nobbery of the gov-erament charged against him when he was disbursing officer of the Signal Service Bureau, sixteen years ago.

The prosecution finished hearing witnesses yesterday morning, and the first witness for the defense was J. C. Thomas, librarian of the Methodiat Book Concern. in New York. He testified that he had known Capt. Howgate from 1889. It evidently the purpose of the testimony to show that the defendant had not been a fugitive from justice, but had gone about New York freely, had met his friends, and could have been brought here at any

Mr. Birney objected that this testimony was not admissible, and the jury was ex-cused While the question was argued. Mr. Birney and Mr. Lewin for the gov-ernment, and Mr. Worthington and Judge ernment, and Mr. Worthington and Judge Wilson for the defense, were heard at great length upon this subject, and numerous authorities were cited by both sides, Mr. Birney held that the question of the application of the statute of limitations to the case had been passed upon by the court. To allow the introduction of testimony to show that he was not a fugitive would be misleading to the jury. Mr. Worthington argued that if the prosecution was allowed to show that Capt. Howgate had made his escape and kept out of the way the defense certainly ought to be allowed to introduce evidence in rebuttal to show the opposite facts to

At the chose of the day Judge McComas excluded as immaterial evidence offered at the last trial and about to be offered at this to show the defendant's whereabouts from 1884 till his arrest last September; also all communications with persons whom die defendant had formerly known and who had knowledge of his whereabouts, together with all evidence hearing upon the question whether the defendant was a person fleeing and not entitled to the statute of limi-

The attorneys for the defense were directed to present a written statement to-day showing what further testimony they propose to offer. Upon looking over this it is understood, Judge McComas will make an additional decision setting out exactly what testimony of that offered shall be offered.

It is understood that this roling by Judge McComas cuts out a greater part of the evidence for the defense. This evidence was placed quite fully before the jury at the last trial, and it is believed July at the last trial, and it is believed went far toward securing an acquittal. The lack of it at this time, will it is supposed, prove a most serious loss.

The government has made out a much shorter, simpler case than was possible in February, the principal facts being the purchase of American Union store by Capt.

Howards with covernment funds and the purchase of American Union stock by Capt. Howgate with government funds and the conversion of the value to his own use.

Mr. L. H. Regers testified that he had sold the stock upon Capt. Howgate's order and had turned the proceeds over to Capt. Howgate. Thomas F. Clark, formerly of the American Union, testified to making out the stock for Capt. Howgate, and transferring it on the books at the company to the purchaser found by Mr. Rogers. He produced the books showing the entries.

How George Gebbard Was Obliged to Pay Double Tax.

A singular case has developed at the office of the tax collector, which, from present appearances, will require the application of considerable red tape, the circumstances being that one property-holder has paid his own tax and the tax bolder has paid his own tax and the tax of his next neighbor, while the neighbor holds a receipt also for the full amount which he should lawfully pay.

George J. Gebhard, who resides at No. 1821 Sixth street northwest, found his tax for last year a little more than double what it was the preceding year-according to his son's statement. The tax was paid for 1894 by a daughter, and no effort was afterwards made to reduce the amount, nothwithstanding the increase in the fall was very much in excess of what was believed to be equitable. The bill this year was the same as hist year, and an investign. was the same as last year, and an investigaion was made by Mr. Gebhard's sor

The collector was appended to, and then the assessor, neither of whom could ex-plain the matter nor suggest a remedy, but finally Assessor Trimble discovered that by some one's clerical mistake Mr. Gebbard's property was charged up at its own proper valuation, with the addition of about an equal amount against the prop-erty of Andreas Gross, who not long ago erected a new building on his adjoining lot, numbered 1319.

The only way to get the tax refunded to Mr. Gebhard is through an application to the Commissioners for rectification of an erformous assessment. This Mr. Gebbard did yesterday. IMPORTANT TO SUBSCRIBERS. The following works, which were published for The Times Free Library are entirely exhausted.
